Microsoft's Tech for Social Impact Team

Microsoft is deeply committed to social impact and empowering nonprofits to create positive change. Out of this desire to influence positive change, Microsoft created the Tech for Social Impact (TSI) organization, which offers a focused team of Microsoft employees brought together to specifically serve nonprofit organizations. This unique part of Microsoft is tasked with supporting nonprofits in the following ways:

- Grants and discounts. Nonprofits can access free technology grants and discounts across cloud products, including Azure, Dynamics 365, and Microsoft 365. These resources enable nonprofits to enhance their operations, streamline processes, and drive greater impact in their communities.
- Capacity building. TSI provides training and learning paths to equip nonprofit employees with the skills needed to leverage technology effectively. By building capacity, nonprofits can maximize their use of Microsoft tools and achieve their mission more efficiently.
- Social investment model. Microsoft's unique social investment model helps ensure that incremental revenue is reinvested into causes for social good. This includes initiatives related to affordable housing, skills development, and technology grants for nonprofits.
- Nonprofit-specific solutions. For example, Community Training (CT) is a mobile-optimized low-bandwidth skilling solution that can be used by nonprofits, IGOs and governments to fill a critical gap in the delivery of affordable anytime anywhere education and skills training to volunteers, program staff and program participants.
